

I think the three most important things about food delivery are restaurants, delivery staff, and customers. Secondly, we need restaurant address, customer address, and restaurant classification to record important information. We also need specific classification to record detailed information about your order, such as order information, payment method, comments on the order and evaluation of the delivery staff. In these specific categories, more specific information needs to be filled in.